EXPLANATION

TO THE LOCATION OF

Streets, Street Car Lines, Pavements, Corner House Numbers, Etc.

STREETS—CITY

Under the heading of Guide to Streets of Detroit and Suburbs will be found a complete list of all Streets, Avenues, Courts and Places arranged alphabetically.

All Streets, Avenues, etc., within the incorporate boundaries of the City are shown in BOLD FACE TYPE. Duplicate Streets, Avenues, etc., located in the new district annexed to the City in 1916-1917 are shown in ITALICS.

STREETS—SUBURBAN

Streets, Avenues, etc., outside of the City Limits, in the Villages and Townships, are designated by the name of their respective location, viz.: GLENDALE Avenue, Highland Park; Beaconsfield Avenue, Grosse Pointe Park.

HOUSE NUMBERS

Woodward Avenue divides the City nearly in the center. It is a base line from which all streets and avenues running East and West are numbered East and West of Woodward. There is one exception to this rule, viz.: Jefferson Avenue East and West, which numbers East and West of Second Street. Streets and Avenues running North and South are numbered North from river or the end nearest the river.

STREET CAR LINES

In connection with the description of each Street and Avenue is given the Street Car Lines and all lines that cross from beginning to terminal of Street.

PAVEMENTS

The Capital Bold Faced Letter before a Street or Avenue indicates that the street is paved, viz.: (P 858 Mack) and an O before a street name, indicates that the pavement ends. Where there is no letter given the street is unpaved.

NOTE

For index to contents of Guide see Last Page.

AUTOMOBILES

There is no more interesting industry today than the manufacture of automobiles, and nowhere in the world does the visitor have greater opportunity of observing the great progress made in the production of automobiles than in the City of Detroit.

The thirty-four automobile and motor truck manufacturing concerns WELCOME VISITORS from the outside world and are always glad to have them inspect the plants that produce automobiles for every country on the globe.

It is estimated during the year 1,252,000 automobiles will be manufactured in the City of Detroit at a market value of $847,700,000. The number of people employed in this industry alone would populate a fair sized city.

AUTOMOBILE DRIVES

The roads about Detroit are not surpassed in any part of the world. Wayne County, in which Detroit is located, is spending millions of dollars in concrete roads which are so perfect that scores of road building experts come to Detroit to examine these wonderful highways.

The streets, boulevards and parks of Detroit cannot be excelled, and at once impress the visitor.

The country drives, which extend in every direction, are most picturesque. They stretch along the lakes and the rivers, up over hills to hundreds of charming resorts as well as cities and villages, and these combine to make Detroit a Mecca for the modern tourist.

Longest stretch of paved road in the United States from Macomb County line (Grosse Pointe) to Flat Rock, Mich.

There are fine roads for the automobilist east to Buffalo, west to Chicago and to points south.

Grosse Pointe Farms, ten miles from the city, is reached over a paved roadway, which is an extension of Jefferson Avenue. After reaching Grosse Pointe, the drive skirts Lake St. Clair, and is one of the most beautiful suburbs in this country.

Bloomfield Hills is reached via Woodward Avenue, passing the State Fair Grounds, and is on the way to a group of lakes which form a favorite objective point for automobilists. The roadway is concrete and an ideal speedway.

Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti—Take Michigan Avenue direct to the college towns, and the concrete road is noted throughout the country as the finest forty-mile drive in America.

Canadian Drives—Ferry to Windsor, thence concrete drive up the river along the shore, possessing unsurpassed views of the American side as well as Belle Isle, passing through Walkerville, stop at Canadian Club Distilleries and Ford City, Ontario.

Grand Boulevard—Delightful drive around the City of Detroit may be reached by driving out Lafayette Boulevard, Woodward or Jefferson Avenues.

Belle Isle—Drive out East Jefferson Avenue to Grand Boulevard.

Water Works Park—Drive out Jefferson Avenue.

Mount Clemens Lake Shore Drive—Visitors having their automobiles will find the Lake Shore Drive to Mount Clemens a delightful side trip from Detroit, the distance being twenty-six miles over a perfect roadway. The drive starts from Detroit out East Jefferson Avenue, in sight of the Detroit River and past Belle Isle to Grosse Pointe, on Lake St. Clair. Grosse Pointe, with its spacious grounds and palatial homes fronting the lake, is not only the finest residential suburb of the Detroit, but is one of the most beautiful spots in the whole country.

Continuing north along the lake the drive passes many miles of beautiful summer homes and terminates at Mount Clemens, "the Bath City." Mount Clemens, noted for its mineral baths, has many beautiful bath houses and hotels, which visitors find well worth inspecting.

If desired, the return trip to Detroit can be made by way of Gratiot Avenue, which is six miles shorter than the going trip. Few drives in America possess as great an interest as the Lake Shore Drive from Detroit to Mount Clemens.

CANADA

The resources of this marvelous country—greater than the area of the United States—can scarcely be realized unless a study is made of them.

In visiting Detroit, the great Dominion of Canada may be reached with very little effort on the part of the stranger. A fleet of ferry boats ply between Detroit and the pretty little Canadian city of Windsor, Ontario.

Canada has always been the Mecca for visitors who are desirous of taking a trip "abroad" and mailing back the irresistible post card.

Windsor (Ont.) Just across the river from Detroit. Strange as it may seem, just here Canada is south of the United States.

Sandwich (Ont.) lies west of Windsor, really a suburb of Detroit but owing allegiance to King George. Reached by a street car from Windsor.

Walkerville (Ont.) lies east of Windsor, reached by street car from Windsor, or ferry from Jos. Campau ave. The home of the famous distillery of Hiram Walker & Sons, the largest in the world.

Amherstburg, a quaint old Canadian town near the mouth of Detroit river, overlooking Lake Erie. Reached by D. B. I. & W. boats and electric cars from Windsor; also good automobile roads.

DETROIT RIVER

The Greatest Commercial Waterway in the World—A Paradise for Tourist and Excursion Travel.

In 1679, when Father Hennepin passed through this strait on the brigantine "Griffon," the first vessel built above Niagara Falls, he thus enthusiastically described this region: "We found the shore on both sides of this beautiful strait adorned with fine open plains. Any number of stags, deer, bear (by no means fierce and very good to eat), wild turkeys in abundance and all kinds of game. The vessel's guys were loaded and decked with wild animals our French and Indian hunters shot and dressed. The islands on both shores of the strait are covered with primeval forests, fruit trees, like walnuts, chestnuts, plum and apple trees and wild vines loaded with grapes. The vast herds of deer surprised us all."

Twenty-two years later Cadillac in his journal used even more glowing terms in describing the place of his landing, where "the living and crystal waters keep the banks always green," where natural orchards "soften and bend their branches under the weight and quantity of their fruit," where "the ambitious vine, which has never wept under the pruning knife, builds a thick roof with its large leaves and heavy clusters weighing down the top of the tree and often stifling it with its embrace," where "the woods are full of game and the waters of fish, and the swans in the river are so numerous that one might take for lilies the weeds in which they crowd together."

The river since then has had many strange scenes and transformations. In 1712 its shores echoed to the war cries of the Outagames and Mascoutins who attacked the settlers. In 1763 it witnessed the attacks of Pontiac's Ottawas upon the vessels which were bringing relief to the beleaguered garrison of the fort. In 1812 it carried over the British troops whose approach frightened a timid general into a cowardly surrender, and the next year brought the victors in the battle of Lake Erie to the recovery of the place. It was traversed by the first steamer that ever appeared on western waters. On its banks were installed some of the earliest and some of the largest shipyards in the whole lake region. In the days when the sail was supreme the grain fleets from Chicago and Milwaukee and the lumber vessels from Saginaw Bay and the Lake Huron shores were a delight to the eye. At the present day the big freighters, laden with iron ore, copper, coal, grain and lumber, as they pass in majestic procession over its course, carry a tonnage that is not equaled in any other place on the navigable waters of the globe. In 1916 the 37,852 vessels that passed Detroit river registered 76,677,264 net tons, and carried 100,907,279 tons of freight, an amount greater than that of the ports of New York and London combined.

The river is unique in one respect. It has no tides. It is never flooded and never dries up, but, with an almost constant current, flows on "as silent and as ceaseless as the grace of God."

Of the 11 miles of city frontage on Detroit river, the railroads were among the first to acquire dock rights, over more than two miles. The rest, so far as it is improved, is occupied by the United States government for fort and light-house purposes, city owned docks, manufacturing companies, dealers in building material and the steamboat companies. The latter fill much the largest place in the eye of the public, for apart from the freight service Detroit has a larger tonnage of excursion steamers than any other port west of New York. Over thirty passenger steamers have this as their home port, with tonnage of 36,000, and they are licensed to carry 60,000 excursion passengers. In the height of the season 3,500 passengers is not an uncommon load for some of the largest steamers. Including those going on the ferry boats, there are about ten million passages a year from dock to boat at this port.

The routes which the boats take are exceedingly varied. The Windsor ferries, upon which the fare is ten cents for the round trip, and the Belle Isle boats, with the privilege of riding all afternoon for a dime, and touching at three city docks, present very inviting rides. Three trips a day down the river to Bois Blanc Island and two a day to Sugar Island present cheap near-by trips that draw hundreds of passengers daily. There is one boat daily to Buffalo and three daily to Cleveland, and these are the largest and finest side-wheel steamers on any waters. There are two a day to Put-in-Bay and Sandusky, two a day to Toledo and three a day to the St. Clair Flats and points on the islands and shores of St. Clair river, and there are two unique trips into Canadian waters. One of these is by way of St. Clair lake and river through the Hidden Channel that separates Walpole island from the main land, the "sny carte" of the lake seamen, and then through Sydenham river to Wallaceburg. The other is through Lake St. Clair and the Thames river to Chatham. The Sydenham and Thames are narrow streams and the trip on the boat is like riding through woods and meadows. Detroit is the home port of the fine steamers that run to Alpena, Cheboygan and Mackinac, and either the home port or port of call for boats to Georgian Bay, the Soo and Lake Superior ports. With a single rail connection from Buffalo to Lewiston, the way is open to Lake Ontario, Montreal and the Lower St. Lawrence. From Duluth to Tadousac represents the range of excursion opportunities open.

It is not only the great artery through which throbs the commercial life of the whole lake region, but one of the chief sources of pleasure and health.

The Belle Isle ferries stop at the foot of Third, Woodward and Jos. Campau Ave.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC OF DETROIT RIVER

The freight traffic of the Detroit river is also marvelous. During the last season 37,852 vessels sailed before Detroit, carrying a total freight tonnage of 100,907,279, valued at $1,069,617,157—more than that of New York, London and Hong Kong combined.

This matter of location has been a factor of highest value to Detroit in all periods of its commercial and industrial activity, as it is on the Detroit river, or straits, which is unique among the waterways of the world. It has no tides; it never dries up and never overflows its banks. The harbor of Detroit, while not land-locked, is so protected that the severest storms hardly disturb a vessel at its mooring, making shipping and pleasure boats safe to a degree unknown on other large bodies of water.

ST. CLAIR FLATS.

Michigan's Famous Summer Resort.

Situated on the Delta of the St. Clair River, twenty miles from Detroit across the silvery Lake St. Clair, it is known as the greatest fishing and hunting region in the country.

Here is the ideal place to go for an outing, here you see hundreds of cottages, clubhouses and hotels erected on piles and on islands of made land.

This is the place where thousands of Detroiters and tourists go to spend the summer season. It has a floating population of over fifteen thousand and is known as the "Venice of America."

Take White Star Line boats from the foot of Griswold Street.

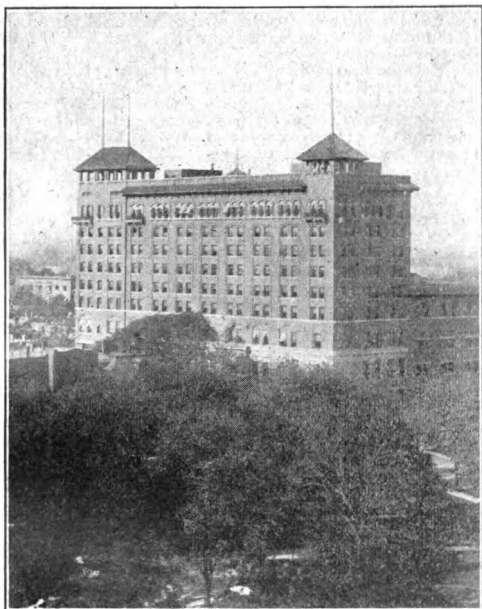

TUNNEL.

The Michigan Central Tunnel Under Detroit River.

An addition of immense importance to Detroit's transportation facilities was made in 1910 when the Michigan Central tunnel under Detroit river was completed. The construction of the tunnel was unique. It consists of twin steel tubes each 262 feet long, and 23 feet in diameter. These were built at the St. Clair shipyard, covered with timber, floated down the river, then sunk into position in deep trenches excavated in the river bed and encased in cement. The length of the tunnel proper is 2,620 feet and of the approaches 5,340 feet, a total length of a mile and a half. It is well ventilated and lighted and cars are taken through it by electrically propelled locomotives. Its use not only expedites the transfer of cars in summer, but obviates the delays that ice formerly caused to the car ferries in winter. The cost of the tunnel and approaches was between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. A number of cars passing through the tubes in 1911 was 245,027 and this hardly represents one-tenth of their capacity. They are now used only by the Michigan Central, but under the terms of the charter under which the work was done the company must grant the use of the tunnel to other roads upon terms to be fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Canadian railroad commissioners.

An outstanding feature of the Detroit Young Men's Christian Association work is that conducted in the Adams Avenue Branch, Grand Circus Park. Of a membership of nearly 7,000 men, 320 live in the 192 dormitories of the building. The structure, which was erected in 1908-09, at a cost of $750,000, is considered one of the most thoroughly equipped Y. M. C. A. buildings in the world—with complete facilities in gymnasium and educational work, bible study, employment and an active program among foreigners of the city.

3,000 young men attend Y. M. C. A. day and night schools.

1,000 men enrolled in 38 Bible study groups; 4,500 workmen in 40 Detroit industries attend the weekly noon shop meetings.

2,500 men find health in the big gymnasium each week. The Business Men's Club of the physical department is composed of 308 professional and business men of the city.

Hundreds of men are placed in positions through the employment department.

Over 1,000 boys are members of the Elizabeth Street Boys' Branch, hundreds of them taking active part in the athletic games, educational and religious activities.

The Metropolitan Office has a unique department which touches the lives of hundreds of young men coming to the city for the first time and adjusting them to their new surroundings, and also meets arriving immigrants at the railway stations and directs them to their destinations or performs some useful service.

How to Reach the Principal Shopping Districts.

The principal shopping district of Detroit is Woodward Avenue from the City Hall north four blocks to Grand Circus Park with its intersecting streets. Starting at the City Hall these intersections running west from Woodward are Michigan, State, Grand River, Clifford and Park. Running east from Woodward starting from City Hall are Monroe, Gratiot, Grand River East, John R. Street and Witherell Street. Important arteries which approximately parallel Woodward are Griswold Street and Washington Blvd. on the west side, and Broadway, Farmer street and Library Avenue on the east side. Woodward Avenue is also retail shopping district from City Hall south to the river. For two blocks west of Woodward south of the City Hall is the principal financial and office building district, while east of Woodward and south of the City Hall is mainly wholesale district, with the exception of Jefferson Avenue, which is the "automobile row" of the downtown district. Woodward Avenue is a solid retail shopping district from Grand Circus Park for several blocks north, and most of the retail automobile salesrooms are found on Woodward between this district and the Grand Boulevard, about three miles from the City Hall.

Direction of the Principal Thoroughfares.

Woodward Avenue

Is the artery which divides Detroit approximately in the center. Woodward runs north from the Detroit River beyond the city limits. It is solid business from the river for one mile north, after which it passes through a district which was residential until the automobile salesrooms and service stations took possession, since which the street is rapidly becoming exclusively a business thoroughfare from the river to the city limits, eight miles out.

Jefferson Avenue

Is the nearest main avenue parallelling the river. It runs east and west from Woodward. Jefferson Avenue running east continues through the downtown shop district for several blocks and leads directly into a district which 20 years ago was one of Detroit's finest residential neighborhoods. The march of business progress has largely transformed this street of late years however. Jefferson Avenue leads to the Belle Isle bridge approach, two and one-half miles east of Woodward, east of which it soon passes a residential district of great beauty, known as the Indian Village, a mile farther passes Waterworks Park, thence through the former village of Fairview, and finally leads to Grosse Pointe, a residential suburb on Lake St. Clair, which for beauty, is equalled by few if any suburbs in America.

Fort Street West

Runs west from Woodward immediately south of the City Hall, passes a banking and office building district, the Union Depot and taps the southerly part of the west side.

Michigan Avenue

Runs northwest from Woodward immediately north of City Hall. Michigan Avenue is an important retail street for several blocks, some of Detroit's finest furniture stores being located on that thoroughfare. Outside of the half-mile circle Michigan Avenue is a business street of small shops for several miles.

Gratiot Avenue

Runs east from Woodward one block north of City Hall. Turns northeast and continues through a prosperous business district for several miles. About one mile from Woodward, Gratiot Avenue crosses the Grand Trunk Railway, at which intersection is located the Gratiot station of that line. About two miles out, Mack Avenue, another important east side artery branches off Gratiot.

Grand River Avenue

Runs west from Woodward two blocks north of City Hall. Turns northwest and extends several miles through a prosperous section of the city, leading to a very desirable outskirts district about five miles out.

Grand Boulevard

A fine asphalt boulevard running around the city about two and one-half miles from the City Hall. Starting from the east end of the Grand Boulevard at the corner of Jefferson (Belle Isle bridge approach), this highway runs north two miles, turns west one mile, turns north one-half mile, again turns west and within approximately one and one-half miles crosses Woodward Avenue, and stretches two and one-half miles farther to Grand River Avenue, where the Boulevard curves gradually southward, crosses Warren Avenue, Michigan Avenue, Fort Street West, and leads to the river opposite the town of Sandwich, Ontario.

Griswold Street

Being the main street on which banks and other financial institutions are located, Griswold Street is often called the Wall Street of Detroit. It is a short but important street running from the river north to Clifford Street and parallels Woodward, one block west.

Washington Avenue

An attractive boulevard running four blocks from Michigan Avenue north and partly east to Park Street. Pretty parks, fountains, flower beds and resting benches occupy the center of this thoroughfare.

Broadway

A thriving street one block east of Woodward and corresponding to Washington Avenue on the west side.

Lafayette Boulevard

A wide avenue in which no street car tracks are laid, and is mainly used by motorists driving straight west. This street starts at Griswold one block west of the corner of Woodward and Michigan. At the corner of Second and Lafayette is located the magnificent new building of the Detroit News and Sunday News-Tribune.

Allowing reasonable time for sightseeing, luncheon, etc., a full day can be pleasantly spent on this trip.

Sightseeing busses can be utilized at low rates of fare. These start from corner of Woodward Avenue and Larned Street.

Another Pretty Drive

Another pretty drive, all on the renowned Wayne County concrete road system, is out Grand River to Seven-Mile Road (14 miles) then turn sharp right on Seven-Mile Road back to Woodward Avenue. Places of Special Interest to See in Detroit.

The Water Front

The water front of Detroit is very attractive. It comprises a harbor about ten miles in length through which it is said more shipping passes than any other harbor in the world. Visitors who have but a limited time at their disposal can get a good view of the harbor from the foot of Woodward or the foot of Griswold Street, or foot of Bates Street (one block east of Woodward). The best view is obtained from any of the ferries which ply on the Detroit River. Windsor ferries and Belle Isle boats leave every few minutes from foot of Woodward.

Belle Isle

Belle Isle is admitted one of the finest parks in America. It is two miles long and from one-half to one mile wide. It has fine improved roads, shrubbery, beautiful flower beds, an extensive wild animal zoo, athletic field with several baseball diamonds, tennis court, foot ball fields, etc., fine aquarium, horticultural building, the Detroit Boat Club and Detroit Yacht Club, a public boat house where canoes and row boats can be rented, two fine bathing houses and beaches equipped to care for hundreds of bathers. At Belle Isle are many miles of pretty canals and lakes, playgrounds for children and a special play house and play yard for babies and very small children with nurses in attendance. Belle Isle is reached in 20 minutes from the foot of Woodward Avenue by boat, or by Jefferson car east on Jefferson to the Grand Boulevard, thence on foot or auto bus across bridge five-eighths of a mile long. Another way is to take street car as above then take small ferry from Belle Isle bridge to the island. A very attractive round trip is to take Jefferson car to Waterworks Park (about four miles), inspect that park and proceed to the river side where public launches are available running to the head of Belle Isle. Then take island auto bus to the foot of the island (a beautiful ride) and the large ferry down river to Woodward Avenue.

Next to Belle Isle, Palmer Park is the prettiest park in Detroit. It is located out Woodward Avenue, six miles from the City Hall (take Woodward cars marked "Log Cabin"). This park was presented to the City of Detroit many years ago by the late Hon. Thomas W. Palmer, former U. S. Senator from Michigan, and one of Detroit's most honored citizens. Palmer Park comprises about 150 acres. A log cabin was built by Senator Palmer, designed as closely as possible after the log cabins common around Detroit in pioneer days, and equipped with furniture which had been owned by the Palmer ancestors. The cabin and furniture are now owned by the city and are open to inspection by visitors.

Visit Canada Before You Leave Detroit.

Across the river from Detroit are several Canadian towns which constitute virtually one community of over 30,000 population. Windsor is directly across from the foot of Woodward Avenue, and is reached by ferries running every 10 minutes. Walkerville is up the river one and one-half miles east of Windsor. It is reached via the Windsor ferry and street car to Walkerville, or by taking Jefferson car to Jos. Campau Avenue in Detroit and walking south to the river where the Walkerville ferry docks. Down river on the Canadian side lies the town of Sandwich which is the county town of Essex county. Adjacent to Sandwich is Ojibway, which is being prepared for a tremendous plant of the U. S. Steel Corporation. A new concrete road has been built from Windsor through Sandwich and around the site of the new steel plant, making a pretty 15-mile drive. Adjoining Walkerville is Ford City, named on account of the location of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada. There are in Ford City several Canadian branch plants of American automobile and accessory factories.

American autoists can obtain 24 hour privilege to tour in Canada by simply showing license registration card to customs officer at the dock on Canadian side. To remain longer than 24 hours and less than 30 days a bond must be obtained at the dock. Fee, 50c. To obtain permission to remain 6 months a different bond is required in connection with which $15.00 must be deposited with the customs officer, $10.00 of which is refunded if the machine has left Canada, and the bond is surrendered inside of six months.

Historical.

Detroit was founded in 1701 by a French nobleman, Cadillac. Surviving many Indian attacks the little French settlement became a small village with outlying farms stretching back in narrow strips of land fronting on the river. In 1760 Detroit became a British possession but the French population remained. In 1796 the Americans under Gen. Wayne took the city from the British. In 1812 Detroit was surrendered to the British by Gen. Hull but it was recovered by the Americans in 1813 following their naval victory on Lake Erie under Commodore Perry. When Michigan became a state in 1835 Detroit had 5,000 population; during the Civil War, 46,000; in 1873, 100,000; in 1888, 200,000.

Since 1900 Detroit has driven forward so rapidly that even her own inhabitants find difficulty in realizing her greatness. The following table shows almost unbelievable growth:

	Population	Bank Clearings	Building Contracts
1900	286,000	$ 427,800,392.00	$ 4,142,400.00
1910	488,000	910,835,007.00	17,225,945.00
1917	850,000	2,260,574,784.00	51,067,110.00

In 1917 the United States Census Department in enumerating the population of cities for the conscription measure placed Detroit fourth American city in population. Thus in a generation Detroit's population of the city has more than trebled and it has jumped from being thirteenth American city in 1900 to fourth in 1917.

While this wonderful development is inseparably connected with the motor car industry, Detroit also leads the world in a variety of industries, including drugs, adding machines, stoves, salt and soda, and others.

Sometimes a better perspective can be gained from afar than from the immediate foreground. In this respect it is interesting to note the action of two great railroad systems. The New York Central has expended millions of dollars in a new terminal for Detroit, while the Pennsylvania Lines, which for years refused grants and other inducements to enter Detroit finally became so sure of Detroit's great future that it has now expended millions of dollars to obtain terminal facilities to enter this city.

Tourists' Bureau.

The Detroit Convention and Tourists' Bureau is an association organized by leading citizens, business and commercial interests of the City of Detroit to assist convention gatherings and to make known to the world in general and the tourist and traveler in particular the beauties of Detroit. All literature and service absolutely free.
